Deliberations

The Kicker:

Larry Eyong-Echaw kicked off deliberations by presenting what his fears were about the “New Southern Cameroons.” He said the laws created would be applied across the board among ‘kings’ and ‘subjects’. Citing the Fon of Bali as an example, he said, the new Southern Cameroons has to address such cases where there is abundant evidence that someone in authority has used their position to perpetrate murder. Larry condemned the murder of the Fulani boy, which was reported to have been performed by thugs under the command of the Fon of Bali. Worse in the entire mess is the fact that when the case came up for public debate on CAMNET and SCNCForum some few months ago, several Bali people and opinion leaders refused to criticize the Fon. In fact, he stated, people clearly refused to get involved thus allowing the Fon to get away with murder. He warned that if North-westerners reverted to the habit of turning a blind eye on criminal activity perpetrated by their Fons, he was not going to be part of such a Republic.

In reply Joe Bannavti said this was not the first time Larry was bringing this issue forward, nor was it the second or third. He said if the concept of the new republic is going to be an “us versus them”, where a heterogeneous group is labeled as northwest and then seen as a uniform community acting in consonance with their traditions and culture to protect criminality and subvert the very republican institutions we are struggling to build, he would be happy to step aside from the SCNC-NA inner circle where we are hatching those laws, and support the struggle in a different way. He said he couldn’t continue to operate with the pious trust that everyone had overcome prejudice, when essentially he was still being held in spite, as a potential conspirator against the laws of the new republic, just because of the accident of origin. Bannavti gave examples of elements, which he said made each ethnic entity in the grass fields of the Southern Cameroons a unique nation, and argued that the simple fact that they have Fons doesn’t make them uniform. He was not sure if other nations have ways of eliminating their Fons for crimes against the land, but he was sure the Nso people have. At the time we are referring to northwest as if it were one homogenous whole, some parts of Bui Division are at war, while Babanki is fighting Bambui, and Bali is facing another nation in battle. He re-iterated that because of the several times this issue has surfaced, he was willing and ready, were it to continue, to step aside and happily participate as a humble citizen of the Southern Cameroons.

Brainstorming was carried out on the areas of concern:

-Fundraising, Membership, Database; 2001

-Summit preparations; United Front of all the movements fighting for the liberation of the British Southern Cameroons.

Mr. Edwin Ngang expressed the opinion that if we are to raise funds we must agree on a name under which we will collect the money. It was then agreed that fundraising should take place under the aegis of the US Southern Cameroons Foundation (US-SCF). These and other issues under discussion would be handed over to the specialized committee for proper examination

Issues considered worthy of addressing to the would-be committees for detailed examination included the following;

- How to increase membership
- How to create a working database of the organization for marketing purposes
- Community outreach: cultural groups, alumni organizations, and family.

Timetable for community outreach

- Packaging a structured message that is consistent, focused in order to market the struggle parties, birthday occasions etc.
- How and when to organize a Town Hall meeting
- Produce a 20 minutes tape with a structured message
- How to create a newsletter
- Maintaining discipline in our message
- How to handle cultural issues

United Front Structure Committee

Rapporteur: Larry Eyong-Echaw

The committee worked with one objective on the radar- that the goal of the current struggle is to assert the sovereignty of the Southern Cameroons. Based on that objective, it sought to establish parameters by which the struggle can be better reoriented in order to lead us quickly to the goal of sovereignty. It therefore made the following recommendations:

-That we create a government in exile

-That such a government should take into consideration people involved in the struggle at home

-The government should be lean and clean and be constituted of the following: One Chair, one Secretary of State, and one Communication Secretary

-That we create representative organizations in other parts of the U.S.A and the world.

-We should look at establishing such groups in countries such as Uganda, Britain and South Africa

That the government in exile should be made up of the United front of SCNC, SCARM and Ambazonia

That between now and June, we be called British Southern Cameroons alias Ambazonia, and that from June we'll be called Ambazonia

The above recommendations by the various committees were tabled for debate to a plenary session that produced the resolutions of The Adamstown Retreat

The Plenary Session Resolutions:

The joint executive session of the Southern Cameroons National Conference in North America and Ambazonia North America, meeting here in Adamstown Maryland, February 23-25 agreed that the issues facing the Southern Cameroons (aka Ambazonia) nation in its current colonized state are immense, serious, and require concerted effort from all the forces struggling to restore the sovereignty of the colony. The joint session examined in detail, the very nature of the struggle and the role that each organization and every Southern Cameroonian has to play to restore the dignity and freedom of the country.
